Dear County Executives,

I ask that a county council member sponsors a bill to reform The Department of Permitting Service. DPS is currently a complaint based system that seemingly only enforces the law when asked by constituents with political sway and influence. While the issue that brought this to my attention was Montgomery County's case against Honey Acres Farm, I understand this issue is about more than Honey Acres Farm. This is about the voices of the rich and powerful overshadowing the voices of the many. I implore you to reconsider how this department is run.
